Mr. Brandon S. Shelby
City Attorney
City of Sherman

OR2013-05948

Dear Mr. Shelby:

You ask whether certain information is subject to required public disclosure under the Public Information Act (the "Act"), chapter 552 of the Government Code. Your request was assigned ID# 484375.

The Sherman Police Department (the "department") received a request for photographs taken during a specified death investigation. You claim the submitted information is excepted from disclosure under section 552.101 of the Government Code. We have considered the exception you claim and reviewed the submitted information.

Section 552.101 of the Government Code excepts from public disclosure "information considered to be confidential by law, either constitutional, statutory, or by judicial decision." Gov't Code § 552.101. Section 552.101 encompasses constitutional and common-law rights to privacy. Constitutional privacy protects two kinds of interests. See Whalen v. Roe, 429 U.S. 589, 599-600 (1977); Open Records Decision Nos. 600 at 3-5 (1992), 478 at 4 (1987), 455 at 3-7 (1987). The first is the interest in independence in making certain important decisions relating to the "zones of privacy" pertaining to marriage, procreation, contraception, family relationships, and child rearing and education the United States Supreme Court has recognized. See Fadjo v. Coon, 633 F.2d 1172 (5th Cir. 1981); ORD 455 at 3-7. The second constitutionally protected privacy interest is in freedom from public disclosure of certain personal matters. See Ramie v. City of Hedwig Village, Tex., 765 F.2d 490 (5th Cir. 1985); ORD 455 at 6-7. This aspect of constitutional privacy balances the individual's privacy interest against the public's interest in the information. See ORD 455 at 7. Constitutional privacy under section 552.101 is reserved for “the most intimate aspects of human affairs” and the scope of information protected is narrower than that under the common-law doctrine of privacy. Id. at 5 (internal quotations omitted) (quoting Ramie, 765 F.2d at 492).

As you acknowledge, however, the right to privacy is a personal right that “terminates upon the death of the person whose privacy is invaded”; therefore, it may not be asserted solely on behalf of a deceased individual. Moore v. Charles B. Pierce Film Enters., 589 S.W.2d 489, 491 (Tex. App.—Texarkana 1979, writ ref’d n.r.e.); see also Attorney General Opinions JM-229 (1984) (“the right of privacy lapses upon death”), H-917 (1976) (“We are . . . of the opinion that the Texas courts would follow the almost uniform rule of other jurisdictions that the right of privacy lapses upon death.”); Open Records Decision No. 272 at 1 (1981) (privacy rights lapse upon death). However, the United States Supreme Court has determined that surviving family members can have a privacy interest in information relating to their deceased relatives. See Nat’l Archives & Records Admin. v. Favish, 124 S. Ct. 1570 (2004) (holding surviving family members have a right to personal privacy with respect to their close relative’s death-scene images and such privacy interests outweigh public interest in disclosure).

Some of the submitted photographs pertain solely to a deceased individual and may not be withheld from disclosure based on his privacy interests. However, you submit comments from the decedent’s surviving widow asserting a privacy interest in the photographs at issue. Upon review, we find the surviving widow’s privacy interests in the photographs of the deceased individual outweigh the public’s interest in the disclosure of this information. We therefore conclude the department must withhold the photographs we have indicated under section 552.101 in conjunction with constitutional privacy and the holding in Favish. None of the remaining photographs pertain to the deceased individual or otherwise implicate a living individual’s privacy interests for the purposes of constitutional privacy. As such, none of the remaining photographs may be withheld under section 552.101 on this basis.

Common-law privacy protects information if it (1) contains highly intimate or embarrassing facts, the publication of which would be highly objectionable to a reasonable person, and (2) is not of legitimate concern to the public. Indus. Found. v. Tex. Indus. Accident Bd., 540 S.W.2d 668, 685 (Tex. 1976). To demonstrate the applicability of common-law privacy, both prongs of this test must be established. Id. at 681-82. The type of information considered intimate or embarrassing by the Texas Supreme Court in Industrial Foundation included information relating to sexual assault, pregnancy, mental or physical abuse in the workplace, illegitimate children, psychiatric treatment of mental disorders, attempted suicide, and injuries to sexual organs. Id. at 683. However, as previously noted, the right to privacy is a personal right that lapses upon death and may not be asserted solely on behalf of a deceased individual. Moore, 589 S.W.2d at 491; see also ORD 272 at 1. Upon review, we find the remaining photographs are either not highly intimate or embarrassing or are of legitimate public concern. Therefore, the department may not withhold any of the remaining information under section 552.101 in conjunction with common-law privacy.

In summary, the department must withhold the photographs we have indicated under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with constitutional privacy and the holding in Favish. The department must release the remaining information.

This letter ruling is limited to the particular information at issue in this request and limited to the facts as presented to us; therefore, this ruling must not be relied upon as a previous determination regarding any other information or any other circumstances.

This ruling triggers important deadlines regarding the rights and responsibilities of the governmental body and of the requestor.
