Dear Ms. Mares:

You ask whether certain information is subject to required public disclosure under the Public Information Act (the “Act”), chapter 552 of the Government Code. Your request was assigned ID# 542346 (ORR# 10-11469).

The City of McKinney (the “city”), which you represent, received a request for two specified police incident reports. You claim the submitted information is excepted from disclosure under sections 552.101 and 552.108 of the Government Code. We have considered the exceptions you claim and reviewed the submitted information.

Section 552.108(a)(2) of the Government Code excepts from disclosure “[i]nformation held by a law enforcement agency or prosecutor that deals with the detection, investigation, or prosecution of crime . . . if . . . it is information that deals with the detection, investigation, or prosecution of crime only in relation to an investigation that did not result in conviction or deferred adjudication[.]” Gov’t Code § 552.108(a)(2). Section 552.108(a)(2) is applicable only if the information at issue relates to a concluded criminal case that did not result in a conviction or deferred adjudication. A governmental body that claims an exception to disclosure under section 552.108 must reasonably explain how and why this exception is applicable to the information the governmental body seeks to withhold. See id. § 552.301(e)(1)(A). You state the submitted incident reports pertain to concluded criminal investigations that did not result in convictions or deferred adjudication. Based on your representations and our review, we agree section 552.108(a)(2) is applicable to the information at issue.

Section 552.108, however, does not except from disclosure basic information about an arrested person, an arrest, or a crime. Id. § 552.108(c). Basic information refers to the information held to be public in Houston Chronicle Publishing Co. v. City of Houston, 531 S.W.2d 177 (Tex. Civ. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1975), writ ref'd n.r.e. per curiam, 536 S.W.2d 559 (Tex. 1976). See Open Records Decision No. 127 (1976) (summarizing types of information considered to be basic information). We note basic information includes, among other items, the identity of the complainant. Id. Thus, with the exception of basic information, the city may withhold the submitted incident reports under section 552.108(a)(2) of the Government Code.

You claim the basic information in the submitted incident reports is excepted from required disclosure under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with the common-law physical safety exception. The Texas Supreme Court has recognized a common-law physical safety exception to required disclosure. Tex. Dep't of Pub. Safety v. Cox Tex. Newspapers, L.P. & Hearst Newspapers, L.L.C., 343 S.W.3d 112 (Tex. 2011) (holding “freedom from physical harm is an independent interest protected under law, untethered to the right of privacy”). Pursuant to the common-law physical safety exception, “information may be withheld [from public release] if disclosure would create a substantial threat of physical harm.” Id. In applying this new standard, the court noted “deference must be afforded” law enforcement experts regarding the probability of harm, but further cautioned, “vague assertions of risk will not carry the day.” Id. at 119. The city argues release of the basic information “could jeopardize the safety of an individual identified in the [information at issue because the] requestor has been stalking the individual identified in the [information].” Upon review, however, we conclude you have not demonstrated that release of any of the basic information would subject the individual at issue to a specific risk of physical harm. Consequently, the city may not withhold any portion of the basic information under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with the common-law physical safety exception.

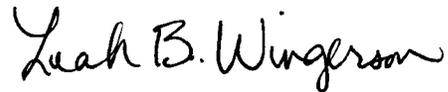

In summary, with the exception of basic information, the city may withhold the submitted incident reports under section 552.108(a)(2) of the Government Code.
